Art No. 185

Synopsis
The paper investigates the implications of labour and capital market imperfections for the relationship between firm size and earnings. The empirical study clearly rejects the hypothesis that the firm-size relationship can be explained by the skills of the workers. They can be shown to be consistent with some form of non-competitive theories of bargaining and efficiency wages.